SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

In early February 1960 Prince Te sent two representatives to Ninghsia to discuss a rapprochement with the local Chinese Communist authorities.* At the end of February, one representative had returned to Prince Te, while the other, Giljintai**, remained in Ninghsia.

Comment. Prince Te is doubtless in desperate circumstances which force him to resort to this means to reduce the pressure on him. Comment. If Prince Te had reached a full accord with the Chinese Communists, the latter would certainly have given the fact wide publicity. It appears probable that Prince To is seeking a local tactical advantage,
